JACKSON DENOUNCED

Argument in the Pearl Bryan Murder Trial.

NELSON SCORED THE PRISONER.

His Opening Speech Occupied Nearly the Entire Day—Judge Helm's Instructions to the Jury Embraces Eighteen Separate Items, All of Which Are Objected to by the Defense.

CINCINNATI, May 12.—Argument in the Scott Jackson murder trial was begun yesterday. At the opening of court Judge Helm read his instructions to the jury. As finally agreed upon there were 18 instructions. To each of the instructions and to all of them Colonel Crawford inclosed an objection and took an exception. The first, second, third and fourth instructions were to the effect that if the jury found that Scott Jackson cut Pearl Bryan's throat with a knife or other sharp instrument or procured Alonzo Walling to cut her throat, or was present while her throat was cut, they should find said Scott Jackson guilty of murder. The fifth and sixth instructions related to the use of drugs for the purpose of procuring an abortion, and said that if the jury found that Jackson believed that Pearl Bryan had been killed by such operation, and did afterward cut off her head, or was present when Alonzo Walling or another cut off her head, then he must be found guilty of murder.

The seventh, eighth and ninth clauses instructed for voluntary manslaughter in case the jury found that Pearl Bryan was dead as the result of an operation or taking drugs. The 10th instruction also related to the administration of drugs and said that if the jury found that he killed her accidentally and afterward cut off her head, they must find the prisoner guilty of voluntary manslaughter. The 11th and 12th instructions said that if the jury found that Scott Jackson cut off Pearl Bryan's head believing her to be dead already, and for the purpose of concealing her identity, they must find the prisoner guilty of involuntary manslaughter.

The 13 instruction related to all statements made by Alonzo Walling, and informed the jury that the prisoner's denial of any or all of these statements must be considered. The last five instructions were formal and technical. They recited the various penalties. For murder, death; for voluntary manslaughter, not more than 21 years, and for involuntary manslaughter, fine and imprisonment in the county jail. Jackson bestrayed no excitement during the reading of the instructions.

At 10:30 o'clock Colonel Nelson started to make the opening speech for the commonwealth. He said, in beginning: "My position here, gentlemen, is unique. I am not the sworn officer of this commonwealth and neither do I represent any person. I stand here utterly impartial. Against the prisoner at the bar I have no personal animosity. I can have none. But I have against the perpetration of this horrible crime that has stained our state with blood; against the human brute who not only killed his poor victim, and who mutilated her body and threw it upon the public highway, as if it had been carion. I feel it my duty to say that for the aged mother who nurtured this defendant, who traveled down into the dark shadows and the valley of death to give him birth, I have nothing but the greatest sympathy. For the sister and for the brother-in-law who have stayed by the side of this prisoner I extend my deepest sympathy. But our sympathy must not affect our duty, and we owe it to the public to do our full duty."

He said that he was unable to recall another crime which had so attracted the attention of the reading world as this one that was soon to go to the jury. The whole United States was looking this week to Newport to learn what the jury in this awful case would do. He said the jury would have but one proposition to determine, and that was, was the murder of a young woman, the mutilation of her body, the dumping of it upon the public road a crime? The jury would have no difficulty in getting at the facts from the mass of technicality about voluntary and involuntary manslaughter.

He said: "I speak for the citizens of the world, the whole civilized world who has watched this case with bated breath. I tell you now, men of Kentucky, that I shall not be satisfied, I tell you that the state of Kentucky will not be satisfied, the civilized world will not be satisfied, the parents of this poor murdered girl will not be satisfied with anything less than a verdict that says that this human brute (pointing at Jackson, who turned pale) shall be hanged by the neck until he be dead, dead, dead. If there is to be a farce about this, if this is to be anything less than the full penalty of the law for this atrocious crime, I tell you frankly, men of Kentucky, that I prefer for you to turn him loose upon this community and thus tell our citizens that murder may be done with impunity in Kentucky."

Colonel Nelson then described at length the life of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan at Greencastle. He spoke of Pearl as their "last born," and he appealed to the sympathies of those of the jury who had children of their own. He said: "On that fatal 18th of August—13th, that number that is considered unlucky—we find a man coming into that little town of Greencastle—a man who has traveled across the briny Atlantic, who has been educated in the east." He spoke of Scott Jackson's meeting with the unsophisticated, confiding, trusting, innocent little country girl, living near the pretty Indiana town.

Jackson's nerve was wonderful. Colonel Nelson stepped right up to him and shook his finger in his face, but, save for a slight flushing of the face, the man never changed. Indeed, while Colonel Nelson's invective was most bitter, while his denunciations were loudest, there was a light in his eyes that looked a great deal like a smile. Turning to Colonel Crawford, Nelson said: "And you Brother Crawford, let us not misunderstand each other in this case. You have a duty for you client, but do not forget that you also have a duty to your state and to your God."

Colonel Nelson then began to pick up the threads of the testimony. He took up first the statement of Dr. Gillespie that Jackson had told him that he had been intimate with Pearl Bryan, and he argued that this statement, made by Jackson's friend, contradicted Scott Jackson's testimony on the stand. He then took up Jackson's testimony and he dwelt at some length on the latter's effort to place the blame for Pearl Bryan's condition upon Will Wood. He said: "Scott Jackson swears that this boy, Will Wood, kept writing to him, pleading to him to help him out of a scrape with Pearl Bryan. He himself had never had anything to do with Pearl Bryan up to that time. You saw this man when his own counsel asked, 'Were you ever improperly intimate with Pearl Bryan?'"

"With an effrontery that Beelzebub himself might have envied, before the aged parents of this girl, before an audience composed largely of ladies, he says in a loud voice 'I did.' That makes the man proud of his crime. I tell you that comes from a heart utterly black, unafflicted by the pangs of conscience. I should think that after that the blush of shame would come to this man's cheek and never leave it until he went to the grave. I say this without malice without anger—in the interests of decency, honesty and religion."

He then discussed Jackson's testimony. He said that Jackson had sworn that he had never been intimate with Pearl Bryan until after he had received word from Will Wood that Pearl Bryan was in trouble. He pointed out that Jackson had testified that, after hearing of Pearl Bryan's trouble, he then went out to the Bryan house and became intimate with the girl. He said: "Men of this jury, the story is a lie on the face of it. It is a lie as deep as the bottomless pit of hell, and if you believe that story, I wish to say that you have less intelligence than I thought you had when I selected you as jurors."

He compared Jackson and Will Wood, and said that Jackson was 27 years old, Will Wood 19. He said the boy was the pupil of the man, and the darker the defense painted the character of Wood, the blacker they made their own. He said that Scott Jackson was a man 50 years old in experience. He referred to the person as a man who has traveled across the ocean, who had been mixed up in the great Pennsylvania railroad robbery, had been in the saloon business in Jersey City, and who had been arrested in Indianapolis in a house of ill-fame. Colonel Nelson then said that according to his testimony of Scott Jackson there was not a witness who had testified for the commonwealth who had not committed perjury. He dared Colonel Crawford to point out one witness who had not been contradicted by the prisoner.

"I'll make a note of it," said Colonel Crawford.

"Do," said Colonel Nelson, "and when you get to it tell it out loud so we may all hear it."

Colonel Nelson then thanked, in the name of the state of Kentucky, the Cincinnati officials for the part they had taken in ferreting out the perpetrators of the crime. He said that the defense had in every way tried to belittle these witnesses. He said: "In regard to the other witnesses I was not so much surprised, but when it came to that man than above whom there is no higher in the state of Ohio, not excepting Major William McKinley, I mean Mayor Caldwell. They tried to impeach him. They cross-questioned him, and all because he said to the prisoner 'Tell the truth.'"

Colonel Nelson then took up again the testimony of Scott Jackson on the witness stand. He picked out all the weak spots in it, and commented strongly upon them. He dwelt at some length on the improbability of Jackson's story—that he had first seen Pearl Bryan in Cincinnati on Tuesday morning and the last time on Wednesday evening.

"Is there," cried Colonel Nelson, "any one that is expected to believe this? Does the defense think that there may be one juror on this bench who may be so ignorant as to believe this?"

He took up the testimony of Mrs. Weeks, the spiritualistic medium, to whom he referred as "a matronly, sweet woman, who stands well in Cincinnati." "Do you believe her?" cried Colonel Nelson, turning to Colonel Crawford.

"No, I don't," said Crawford.

"Thank God for that confession. I say, thank God for that," cried Colonel Nelson with a dramatic gesture. He said that Mrs. Weeks was supported by a host of other witnesses, and should not be contradicted. She was backed up by Mrs. Holmes, Dr. Fortner, John W. Foster, old man Pinkard and others. He said: "The defense brings up Hub Schwartz, a reporter of The Enquirer, to contradict Dr. Fortner. Which will you believe? That honest doctor and Mrs. Weeks or this newspaper reporter?"

Turning to Colonel Crawford, and, shaking his finger in his face, he said: "Was Mrs. Weeks a liar? Was Dr. Fortner a liar? Was J. W. Foster a liar? Was Mr. Pinkard a liar? Were they all liars?"

He then passed to a discussion of the meeting on the streets between Scott Jackson, Alonzo Walling and Pearl Bryan.

He described Pearl Bryan's dress, and, reaching under the table, he pulled up the checked dress which was found on the headless body. It was dirty and covered with blood, and as Colonel Nelson walked slowly toward the prisoner, saying, "This bloody dress, this bloody dress," amid the most intense silence, the scene was so dramatic that a woman in the crowd cried out. "This is dreadful!"

The speaker recounted how Jackson threw Pearl Bryan's trinkets into the river. "But the valise," cried Nelson, as he shook the bloody satchel within a foot of Scott Jackson's face, "that valise had an electric touch, and he could not let go of it."

Colonel Nelson concluded by proclaiming that the defendant had been guilty of seduction, murder, mutilation of a dead body and robbery. He spoke for about five hours and finished at 5 o'clock, when court adjourned.

M. E. CONFERENCE WORK.

The Election of Bishops Will Begin on Thursday of This Week.

CLEVELAND, May 12.—The high temperature and the humidity of the atmosphere both operated to prevent a burst of oratory at the Methodist Episcopal general conference yesterday, and the routine business transacted was disposed of with as little effort as possible. The most important question disposed of was the fixing of the time for the election of bishops. The election will begin on Thursday of this week and continue until all the officers are chosen.

Resolutions were presented favoring the abolition of the color line in the election of bishops and condemning lynchings, both of which were referred to appropriate committees without action.

Another resolution proposing a reduction in the salaries of conference officials, because of hard times, was also referred to a committee.

At a meeting of the committee on episcopacy in the afternoon, a subcommittee reported that it had examined the law bearing on foreign episcopates and had reached the conclusion that there was nothing to prevent foreign bishops. The subcommittee recommended a bishop for Europe. The question of whether the church should exercise jurisdiction outside the United States, was warmly debated all the afternoon and laid over until the next meeting. In response to a previous request the bishops reported that they were in good health and capable of continuing in the discharge of their duties, but that in view of the growth of the church and possible contingencies, the election of two more bishops are desirable.

The committee on itinerancy considered the proposed changes in the church discipline. Two of the questions asked of an aspirant for ministerial appointment, both before and at the close of his probation, are:

"Will you promise to abstain entirely from tobacco?" and "are you in debt?"

The bishops proposed to omit these questions from the final examination and allow the first promises to stand. There was a long debate over this in committee, but the recommendation of the bishops was finally sustained on the vote.

A subcommittee of the committee on combination of benevolences recommended the joining of the Freedman's Aid and South Educational society and the board of education, under the name of "education and freedman's aid board," also the union of the Sunday school society and the Tract society under the name "Sunday School and Tract society." This met with strong opposition and the question went over to Wednesday.

The committee on boundaries recommended that the state of Michigan have four conferences instead of two.

The committee on revival of the constitution decided against shortening the term of probation, which is six months. A subcommittee was directed to draw up an order of church services, strictly Methodist Episcopal, which shall be mandatory.

The committee on state of the church recommended the appointment of one evangelist or more in each district conference for revival work. The proposition that the corresponding secretaries of all the church benevolences be nominated by the bishops and elected by the boards of control of these institutions was received, but no action taken on it. The discussion on the proposition to ask for the insertion after the word "Posterity" in the preamble of the United States constitution the words "In God we trust" was long and heated, and the question was finally referred to a subcommittee.

THE EDITOR OF PUCK DEAD.

Henry Cuyler Bunner Succumbs to Consumption.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Henry Cuyler Bunner, editor of Puck, died yesterday afternoon at his residence in Nutley, N. J., from tubercular consumption. Mrs. Bunner and his children were at his bedside when death came.

Mr. Bunner was born in Oswego, N. Y., on Aug. 3, 1855. He was educated in a French school in New York city. His first venture in life was as an employee of a Portuguese business firm in this city, but the work was not congenial and he soon became connected with the New York newspapers and for some years worked as a reporter. In 1877 Schwartzman & Koppler issued the first edition of Puck. It was then a German publication. Before long the German edition was supplemented with an English edition, and Mr. Bunner was made the assistant editor, and later he was placed in charge as editor. Under his editorship and with the illustrations of Keppler the publication soon attained a wide circulation and the property became very valuable.

In addition to his work on Puck, Mr. Bunner was a frequent contributor to the leading magazines, and was the author of a number of works. The most notable of these were "A Woman of Honor," published in 1883; "Airs from Acardy and Elsewhere," (poems), 1884; "The Midge," 1886; "The Story of a New York House," 1887, and "In Partnership," a collection of stories, 1884. In the latter production he collaborated with Brander Matthews.

Mr. Bunner had been sick for some time. Last winter he was sent to the Pacific coast. The trip did him little or no good, and a few weeks ago he returned to his Nutley home. Since then, Mrs. Bunner has been almost constantly at his bedside. The deceased leaves three children. The oldest is 9 years old, the youngest an infant.

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

COMPETITOR'S CREW.

The Execution of Their Death Sentences Postponed.

THEY WILL PROBABLY BE SAVED

The Views of the United States Will Be Heard Respecting the Application to Their Cases of the Treaty of 1795 and Protocol of 1877—A Strong Defense For the Captives.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—In the cases of the men arrested on the Competitor it can be authoritatively stated that at the request of the United States the Spanish government will postpone the execution of the death sentences upon American citizens until the views of the United States respecting the application to their cases of the treaty of 1795 and the protocol of 1877 can be presented and considered.

The postponement of the executions means a delay of some weeks at least, and that the matter will be taken up by the diplomatic representatives of the United States and of Spain, and be made the subject of the exchange of correspondence on the interpretation to be given the treaty provisions between the two nations. Meanwhile the effect will be to allay popular excitement both here and in Spain.

The action of the state department in insisting upon a re-trial at least of the American prisoners is evidently in answer to the contention of the court-martial that the Cushing protocol of 1877 did not apply to the present case. The court held that it applied only to American citizens resident in Spain, or the Spanish dominions, and as the captives from the Competitor were not in any sense residents of Cuba, decided that they could not claim any of the privileges accorded by the protocol.

In the opinion of the state department this was an extremely narrow and illiberal construction to place upon the protocol, but while not accepting this construction, the department guarded against an adverse decision on the protocol by recurring to the ancient treaty of 1795, on the ground that if the prisoners' case was not covered by the protocol they certainly could invoke the measure of protection afforded by the earlier treaty. While this treaty is not by any means generous in the matter of privileges held out to American prisoners, it still contains some guarantees of great value to them in just such cases as that which has now arisen. The section of the treaty applying to the case in the judgment of the state department is Article VII, which reads as follows:

"And it is agreed that the subjects and citizens of each of the contracting parties, their vessels or effects, shall not be liable to embargo or detention on the part of the other for any military expedition or public or private purpose whatever, and in all cases of seizure, detention, or arrest for debts contracted, or offenses committed by any citizens of the one party within the jurisdiction of the other, the same shall be made and prosecuted by order and authority of law only, and according to the regular course of proceeding usual in such cases. The citizens and subjects of both parties shall be allowed to employ such advocates, solicitors and notaries, agents and factors as they may judge proper in all their affairs and in all their trials at law in which they may be concerned before the tribunals of the other party, and such agents shall have free access to be present at the proceedings in such cases and at the taking of an examination and evidence which may be exhibited in the said trials."

The contention of the state department is that, irrespective of the Cushing protocol of 1877, this treaty gives the American prisoners certain privileges that were withheld from them by the Spanish court-martial. Notably, they were obliged to rest their defense in the hands of a Spanish officer detailed for the purpose, and one in all probability not particularly anxious to clear his clients, and were prevented from selecting their own counsel, as guaranteed by the treaty. Also, it is said that the prisoners did not have an opportunity to procure testimony in their own behalf. This is one of the privileges inseparable from a lawful and regular conduct of the prosecution. Although the indications are that the state department is preparing a strong defense against the execution of the death penalty, in the case of the American prisoners.

HURRYING HIS DEPARTURE.

General Fitzhugh Lee Will Soon Be in Cuba as Our Consul General.

RICHMOND, May 12.—General Fitzhugh Lee is expediting his preparations to leave for Cuba earlier than he expected when recently appointed consul general to that island by President Cleveland.

He came to Richmond immediately after his appointment, accompanied by Mrs. Lee, expecting to spend the usual time allowed to consular officers before departing for a foreign post, with friends in this city, but almost as soon as he arrived he received his papers from the state department with instructions to qualify himself for the position by taking the oath of office, which he did before a United States commissioner.

Then, in response to a telegram from the president, he immediately left for Washington, and, after several interviews with the president and Secretary Olney, he returned to his home at Lynchburg. He will leave for Washington on May 15 to receive final instructions before starting for Cuba.

The Portsmouth Blade is still roasting Ohio's late Republican Legislature. It says:

There is not a Republican paper in the State with the courage of its convictions that has not expressed disgust with the Cox-Foraker-Bushnell-Sleeper-Kurtz machine, called a legislature, that has just adjourned. Some of them don't have the courage to call by name the politicians who pulled the string that put the jumping-jacks in motion, but he who reads between the lines may have no difficulty in understanding whom is meant. There are a few cur papers, obsequious, crawling, lick-spittle fellows, of course, that indorse the Legislature. AN OLD MAN ROBBED.

James Dalzell, a prominent Nicholas County Farmer Roughly Handled by Footpads.

As James Dalzell, an old and prominent farmer of Nicholas County, was returning home Saturday night from Carlisle he was accosted by two negroes, who demanded his money, $400, which he had just received for his tobacco crop.

He resisted, and they beat him nearly to death with clubs, leaving him unconscious.

They rifled his pockets of the money, and took his gold watch.

He was not found until Sunday morning when medical aid was summoned. His condition is dangerous.

Two negroes, John Tolbert and Will Brice, have been arrested, and the authorities think they have conclusive evidence against them.

The agent of Liggett & Myers at Flemingsburg has received about 200,000 pounds of tobacco to date. In four days last week they took in about 150,000 and one day about 50,000.

The sound-money Democrats of Kentucky have appointed committees to look after the campaign in this State. Hon. John F. Hager, of Ashland, represents the Ninth Congressional district.

MR. AND MRS. J. T. KACKLEY, Mrs. Shultz Wood, Ed. Nesbitt, C. D. Russell, Miss Frances Cake, G. S. Judd and A. M. Peed will go to Flemingsburg on their wheels Thursday, leaving here at 5:30 a. m. Anyone wishing to join the party is cordially invited.

It is said 5,000 people were present Sunday at the opening of the base ball season at Clyffside Park near Ashland. The Navies of Cincinnati was the opposing team. After one inning had been played all parties interested in the game were arrested and taken to Ashland.

ANYONE knowing of a Union veteran buried in this county without suitable markers to his grave can have the same placed there without charge if they will send name of the soldier, number of company and to what regiment he belonged. The undersigned will esteem it a favor to have such information given them.

Fickle Fashion's New-found Fad!

Linen's the Thing. Linen shades and linen fabrics will line the streets this summer. It's the most sensible fad the summer girl has found. Linen spread in everything, plain Linen Colors, Linen Stripes, Linen Dots, Linen Organdies, Linen Lawns, Linen Dimities and so on through a stock of beautiful Wash Goods. Persian Patterns, Printed Warps and Dresden designs, come close to the Linen fad in popularity—hard to say which leads.

Dimities hold their own. This fabric was never shown in more beautiful colorings,—Dresden, Persian and warp effects without end. For 8½, 10, 12½, 15, 18, 20, 25.

Jaconets.—Plain colors, stripes, small figures, Dresden and Persian patterns and linen shades, 12½.

Leno Tulle.—Entirely new. Light sheer fabric, not too open, between a lace and plain cloth, comes in choice, delicate Organdy styles and Persian and linen shades, 15 a yard.

Organdie Raye.—Another of the new and beautiful fabrics, elastic finish, firm texture, patterns especially adapted for children's wear, 15 a yard.

Lace Stripe a novelty, with lace effect running lengthwise between stripes of ½ to 1½ inches, worn in light blue, pink, linen and other color combinations, 15 a yard.

Organdies.—Go from the silk to the Organdy pile and you will find the same designs and colors. In both, the Dresden, Persian and printed warp prevail, 32-in. width, for 15 and 18 cts.; 33-in. fine French Imported Organdy, best the market contains, very sheer weave, new designs, 29c.

Corded Mull.—32 inches wide, new, sheer fabric, elastic finish, with a Dimity cord which adds to its firmness, 15c a yard.

Printed Madras.—A soft, delicate material, Persian patterns in light and dark shades, most desirable for shirt waists, 10 a yard.

Princesse Weave, with Bourette and Dimity cord running through, which give firmness and that dressy effect so desired. Comes in new Persian and linen shades, especially used just now for waists, 25 a yard.

TO THE HEART.

A Young Farmer Stabbed to Death Near Peebles, Adams County, Ohio.

PEEBLES, O., May 11.—At Mineral Springs, Saturday night, a number of people, among them being Nathaniel Dodge, twenty-four, a farmer, were returning from a church meeting.

In the crowd were Thomas, George, Henry and Sylvester Thomas, brothers. Dodge was walking with his sister, when, it is said, George Taylor accosted him and said: "Dodge, who told you I stole a horse and buggy at Maysville, Ky. I believe you made up that lie." It is said that before Dodge could reply George and Sylvester Taylor attacked him, and he was dazed by a blow from a stone. While the trouble was at its height Dodge was heard to say: "Take them off; they are stabbing me to death."

The Taylors were pulled away from their victim, who sunk to the ground. The alleged assailants left the scene, but Dodge's brother and sister, who had been witnesses of the tragedy, made the wounded man as comfortable as they could and remained by his side in the woods until death came. One stab had penetrated his heart.

Sylvester Taylor was arrested, but the other three brothers escaped.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents per bottle at J. James Wood's drug store.

Horses Wanted.

Mr. Joe Kindig, of York, Pa., will be at Mose Daulton & Bro.'s stable, Maysville, Ky., on Tuesday, May 26th, 1896, and will pay the highest market prices for good, sound horses or mares from four to six years old, well broken and in good flesh. Bring in good ones and get the money for them. Don't forget the date, Tuesday, May 26th.

OUT FOR BUSINESS.

Merchants of Maysville Will Try to Secure a Series of Cheap Excursions.

What Was Done at the Meeting of the Business Men of the City Last Night.

The meeting of the business men at the court house last night was very well attended, representatives of many of the principal houses being present.

It was called to order by Editor Thos. A. Davis, and on his suggestion and motion Mr. D. Hechinger was elected Chairman. Representatives of the newspapers present were chosen Secretaries.

Mr. Hechinger stated that the chief object of the meeting was to devise some plans for arranging for a series of cheap excursions.

An address was made by Mr. Davis, who recounted briefly some of the changes in Maysville's commercial standing in the past forty years, and her experience with the old Maysville and Lexington Railroad, and her great loss when she allowed that road to pass out of her control and into the hands of the Kentucky Central.

Concerning the idea of cheap excursions, he said it was not original with him. Other cities were availing themselves of the scheme. He suggested that committees be appointed to confer with the two railroad companies and try to arrange for a series of excursions.

Remarks were made by Mr. Geo. T. Hunter and others.

On motion of Mr. R. L. Browning, committees were appointed to confer with the railroad companies, and ascertain whether they would consent to run such excursions and upon what terms. The committees are as follows:

To confer with the L. and N.—R. L. Browning, Simon Rosenau and E. H. Benzel.

To confer with C. and O.—E. A. Robinson, John Duley and W. W. Wikoff.

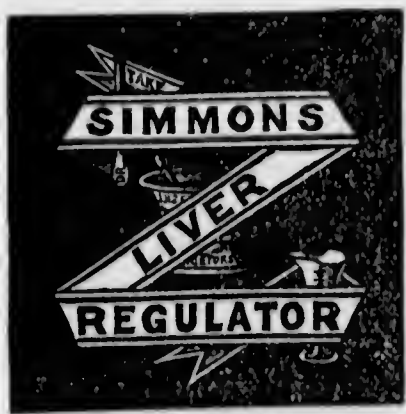

On motion of W. H. Lynch, a committee was appointed to wait upon Council and petition that body to repeal the license on circuses. The Chairman appointed James W. Fitzgerald, H. C. Barkley and John C. Adamson as said committee.

On motion of Mr. Browning, the Chairman, Mr. Hechinger, was appointed Chairman of the Committee to solicit a guarantee fund, and was given authority to select the other members of the committee.

The meeting then adjourned.

Those who attended the meeting are thoroughly in earnest, and if the railroads do not demand too much in the way of a guarantee it is safe to say that arrangements will be made for a series of cheap excursions to Maysville this season, on both roads.

One thing was overlooked last night, however, and that was the appointment of a committee to arrange, if possible, a series of special attractions in the way of amusements or games on the dates of the excursions. Cheap rates will draw better if there is some special attraction at this end of the line. Several business men have expressed the opinion that a series of good ball games and bicycle races at the park in the afternoon of the cheap excursion days would prove big attractions, and would help to swell the crowd and attain the desired end. But

THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

Is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. Don't forget to take it. Now is the time you need it most to wake up your liver. A sluggish liver brings on Malaria, Fever and Ague, Rheumatism, and many other ills which shatter the constitution and wreck health. Don't forget the word REGULATOR. It is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR you want. The word REGULATOR distinguishes it from all other remedies. And, besides this, SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR is a Regulator of the liver, keeps it properly at work, that your system may be kept in good condition. FOR THE BLOOD take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. It is the best blood purifier and corrector. Try it and note the difference. Look for the RED Z on every package. You won't find it on any other medicine, and there is no other liver remedy like SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—the King of Liver Remedies. Be sure you get it. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

no ball team has yet been organized, and that matter should be looked after at once. The cheap excursions ought to prove an extra inducement to the members of the base ball association to get a team together at once.

Other attractions could be secured also, if the matter is undertaken in the right spirit. A big political meeting with speakers of National reputation would prove a good drawing card for one day.

The committee could also set on foot a move for an old-time celebration of July 4th. Unless some such celebration is had here Maysville will be practically deserted on the 4th. Other places are arranging to celebrate the day; why should not Maysville?

TOWBOAT BLOWN UP

Harry Brown Sunk Twenty-Five Miles Below Vicksburg.

ELEVEN KNOWN TO BE LOST.

Six Others Injured, Several of Them Seriously—The Boat Was a Complete Wreck and Sank in Less Than Five Minutes. Names of Those Known to Be Lost and the Injured.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 12.—One of the most terrible river disasters of recent years occurred Sunday night about 25 miles below this city. The towboat Harry Brown of Pittsburg, upward bound from New Orleans, exploded her boilers at 11 o'clock. The boat was a complete wreck and sank in less than five minutes. Eleven lives are known to be lost, as follows:

Norman Dravo, pilot.
G. W. Bardsley, steersman.
William Dougherty, chief engineer.
Miss Annie Hess, chambermaid.
Tom Judge, fireman.
William Wilson, fireman.
William Fitzmorris, first mate.
Pat Caniff, second mate.
William Kelley, lamp trimmer.

Frank Adrain of Cincinnati and John Wagner of Louisville are missing and are supposed to have drowned.

The survivors and also the wounded were brought to this city on the Honshell. Six of the officers and crew of the Brown are in the marine ward of the Vicksburg hospital as follows:

Captain John Kime, hip seriously injured.

William Grimme, carpenter, leg broken.

John Hardy, fireman, badly scalded and otherwise seriously injured.

Dennis J. Lomey, second engineer, badly scalded and internally injured; will probably die.

Two deckhands, names unknown.

Pilot Dravo, who was lost, was of Pittsburg, and was a most excellent man, whose death will be greatly regretted.

The bodies of the three dead men who were brought here are at Fischer's undertaking establishment, and have been embalmed and will be sent to their homes.

The towboat Honshell was so near the scene when the explosion occurred that her yawls were lowered at once and were promptly manned and saved many lives that would have been lost if it had not been for their prompt service.

Captain Kime, the master of the Brown, although seriously injured, remained on the after part of the cabin roof of the Brown, where he had been blown by the explosion. He was seen yesterday by a reporter, and said:

"The afterpart of the cabin floated off from the hull, and it sank to the bottom of the river. I directed the efforts of the men who were at work rescuing the boat's crew.

"Myself and Pilot Dan Kane were in the Brown's pilothouse when the explosion occurred. It would be impossible for any one to tell how many of the seven boilers exploded, as the darkness prevented any one seeing anything. It seemed that the hull went down in less than a minute. I have no blame to attach to any one, as the cause of the explosion will never be known, as the chief engineer, William Dougherty, who was on watch, was lost."

The officers and boat's crew speak in the most grateful praise of the officers and crew of the steamer St. Joseph, who contributed clothing and other substantial.

Captain Kime expects to send the crew of the Brown to their homes by rail as soon as he receives instructions from Pittsburg.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGES

Every Man Who Would Know the Grand Truths, the Plain Facts, the New Discoveries of Medical Science as Applied to Married Life, Who Would Avoid Past Errors, and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book Called "Complete Manhood, and How to Obtain It."

"Here at last is information from a medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."
The book fully describes a method by which to obtain full vigor and manly power. A method by which to end all unnatural strains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self-control, debility, etc.
To dispel a faded and worn nature for new brightness, buoyancy and power.
To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry, etc.

To give full strength, development, and tend to every portion and organ of the body.
A no barrier. Failure impossible. Two grand references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who had applied to us, wrote after we wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born today. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cart load of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the LITTLE MEDICAL COMPANY, 222 N. Y. St., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper, and the company promises to send a book, in a sealed envelope, without any cost, and entirely free, until it is well introduced to this office.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Fruit, Fruit.

The Fruit season of 1896 is close at hand and I have perfected arrangements with some of the largest and most successful Fruit growers of the Ohio River hills to handle their entire crop of

Strawberries,
Raspberries,
Blackberries,
Peaches, Etc.

This fruit is grown on the elevated lands, principally in Lewis County, by growers of long experience, and will be much superior to any grown on the low or flat lands. It will be received by express and placed on the market here on the same day it is gathered, and will be furnished to dealers and consumers in first-class condition. Special prices always given to dealers, so as to enable them to sell at same prices I sell to consumers and make fair profits.

My Supply of Vegetables will also be at all times full and of very best quality, and lowest prices.

A special invitation is extended country people to make my house their headquarters when in our city.
